

It's About Time: Defining Clinical Endpoints for Bleeding in Studies of Women and Girls

FWGBD Symposium at ISTH 2025 in Washington, DC
Walter E. Washington Convention Center
2:00 - 5:00 PM ET | Friday, June 20th, 2025

Join a dynamic gathering of clinicians, researchers, and thought leaders addressing one of the most persistent gaps in medicine: how we define and measure bleeding in women and girls with blood disorders. Through focused discussions on menstruation, obstetrics, surgery, and trauma, we'll explore what meaningful, feasible clinical endpoints look like across the reproductive lifespan.

Our special feature will include a panel discussion exploring the inclusion of women in clinical trials—barriers, breakthroughs, and bold ideas for the future. Don't miss this vital opportunity to shape more inclusive and effective clinical research - register today!

Registration is required for this event at $50.00 USD* and is separate from ISTH 2025 registration fees. Attendees are not required to attend ISTH 2025.

*FWGBD Membership Discount available (10%). Email membership@fwgbd.org for the member registration form or to learn more about membership with FWGBD.

Learn more about the program,
our sponsors, and register at fwgbd.org/isth-symposium-2025
or scan the QR code!

FOUNDATION FOR Women & Girls⁺ with Blood Disorders